Ferry Company Asks $425,000 Stock Permit

Draughon and Gordon Would Sell 4250 Shares

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—The Richmond-San Francisco Transportation company has applied to the railroad commission for authority to sell 4250 shares of its common capital stock, at par value of $100 per share, to net $5 per cent of par, and to use the proceeds thereof for the purpose of financing the purchase of a ferry boat costing $550,000, and other capital expenditures.

MISERS AND THEIR MILLIONS

To Be Thrifty is Not to Be Miserly—Thrifty is Only Intelligent Spending.

Thrifty, as some very wise man has said, means only intelligent spending. Some people try to make it appear that to be thrifty is to be miserly, but it is easy to see that if we develop a race of misers who hoarded their savings, there could be nothing of prosperity or happiness here. Misers are never happy and they are never prosperous. They may have millions, but if they do not spend intelligently—and in some cases it has been shown that they will not spend at all—their money is about as worthless as any rocks.

The economic structure in this country is based upon the earnings and spending of currency. Thrift has its part to play in all this sort of thing, but those who cannot see the difference between intelligent spending and hoarding grow older without growing wiser. Thrift, properly exercised, is one of the most important factors in the life of any city, state or nation. Thrifty people—real people of thrifit, that is—are the safeguards of the republic. Misers never help themselves nor anyone else. Furthermore, they do not desire to be of help to anyone.

The thrifty man and woman sees the mutual advantage of service. He saves a part of what he earns, but he doesn't attempt to save all of it at the expense of his own happiness and the progress of his municipality, commonwealth or country.—Dayton News.

STUDYING ENGLISH

Investigation of the causes and extent of the dispersal of the English sparrow is to be made by Prof. George Wagner, L. H. Cole and others at the University of Wisconsin. The fact that at certain times of the year in certain localities the English sparrows disappear, only to return suddenly in large numbers, has led scientists to inquire where the birds go, and why.

The study will cover several years. Sparrows on the university campus at Madison will be trapped, marked with numbered leg bands and released, in the hope that their presence in other parts of the country at the time of their strange migrations will be noted and reported.

JOHNNY ON THE SPOT

Pat and Mike went hunting with a shotgun and only one shell. They came upon a squirrel, and Mike was taking careful aim with the gun when Pat cried:

"Don't shoot, Mike, for the Lord's sake, don't shoot, the gun ain't loaded."

But Mike replied: "I got to, Pat; the squirrel won't wait."—Harper's Magazine.

As it now looks, 1924 is going to be a hard year for the democrats to fool the people.

Four Propositions to Be Voted For Nov. 6

The four proposals to be voted upon at the November 6 election by the electors of Richmond should be studied carefully. A person who does not cast his vote intelligently, throws it away. The proposals to be placed on the ballot are as follows:

1. New City Charter.
2. Annexation to the Water District.
3. Fifty thousand dollars bonds for municipal baths.
4. Harding Memorial Hospital, $150,000 bonds.

Kurtz Sells Out

After twelve years in the gents furnishing business in Richmond, S. B. Kurtz sold his business to H. Marcus, formerly connected with a dry goods business here.

Mr. Kurtz came here from San Jose twelve years ago. He is one of Richmond's conservative business men who will be missed should he decide to leave Richmond.

DOG'S NERVE IN HUMAN ARM

Doctor Gosset of Paris Performs What Seems Like a Miracle in Surgery.

A dog's sciatic nerve, preserved in a bottle in a surgery, has been grafted into the shattered arm of a man.

The surgical miracle was described at a session of the Congress of the International Society of Surgeons in London. Doctor Gosset of Paris told how the patient came to him with an arm apparently useless and hopeless. It had no feeling and no power of movement.

A bottle on a shelf in the surgery contained the second-hand nerve of a dog, kept in spirits. The surgeon made a present of it to the patient and fixed it in its right place. In six months the feeling returned to the arm, and in less than a year the patient could move it.

Photographs of grafted nerves in various stages were thrown on the screen. A triumph in war surgery was exhibited in the persons of two young soldiers. Each had an arm bone smashed about the elbow. When the bones were mended it was found in each case that the hand hung crooked.

In one test recently made in the presence of several persons a man wrote on paper the thing upon which he would think. He drew a rough sketch of the object and studied this five minutes. Then it was laid aside and he concentrated for ten minutes on the photo plate suspended 12 inches from his eyes. He did not touch the plate, which was taken by three men to a darkroom and there developed. A cross appeared.

The paper written by the subject was next found to read, "I will think of a cross."

This test has been repeated several times with success, the society reports.

World Shipping Far Greater Than Before the War

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—The world's merchant marine, as of June 30, 1923, has increased by 1,128,000 gross tons over the amount recorded for the same date a year ago and by 15,425,000 gross tons over 1914.

Sixty-three per cent of the increase for the last year appears in the German fleet which increased from 1,783,000 gross tons in 1922 to 2,496,000 gross tons in 1923. In spite of this fact the German merchant marine is still only 52 per cent of its pre-war strength.

These figures give an idea of the tremendous competition there is among the merchant fleets of the world. With less goods being transported and over 15,000,000 gross tons more shipping to haul them the fight for commercial supremacy on the high seas becomes a fight for existence.

Freme Estate $7700

Mrs. Evelyn Robbins of Richmond has applied for letters of administration in the estate of her daughter, Katherine Freme, who died in Texas in 1918 leaving an estate valued at $7700. The mother and two brothers are heirs to the estate. Tsar N. Calfee is attorney petitioner.

MAY PHOTOGRAPH THOUGHT

Experiments by Western Research Society seem to indicate that Camera Can Catch It.

Photographs of thoughts are being made by a Western research society, it is claimed. Objects upon which the subject thinks deeply for ten minutes appear upon a film wrapped in a black paper, sealed in a yellow envelope and hung 12 inches before the eyes. No camera is used. Persons holding strips of film to the forehead for ten or fifteen minutes obtain pictures of the objects or scenes upon which they concentrate, according to the scientists.

In one test recently made in the presence of several persons a man wrote on paper the thing upon which he would think. He drew a rough sketch of the object and studied this five minutes. Then it was laid aside and he concentrated for ten minutes on the photo plate suspended 12 inches from his eyes. He did not touch the plate, which was taken by three men to a darkroom and there developed. A cross appeared.

The paper written by the subject was next found to read, "I will think of a cross."

P. O. Department Is Preparing For the Xmas Rush

Washington, Oct. 25.—Christmas this year comes on Tuesday. The fact that so closely follows Sunday is pleasing to everybody except the postal authorities who realize that two holidays so close together means a congestion of mail. For that reason the postal machinery of the government is already being put in motion to handle the Christmas holiday business in order that it may not be unduly delayed.

SYNTHETIC GOLD EXPENSIVE

Successful Research and Technical Development as Against Excessive Cost of Production.

The metal miner need fear nothing from the discoveries of science. In this respect he is in a more fortunate position than the miner of compounds, many of which can be manufactured synthetically. However, the economic aspect is important. Successful technology does not always connote commercial supremacy. The present position of the industries concerned with the synthetic manufacture of nitrate, camphor and indigo constitutes an indication of successful research and technical development against economic odds too strong to be overcome.

A London writer says "Europe waits for America to speak." Waiting for American money to talk would better express the European attitude.

Transmutation, which may be defined as a natural and little understood change, whereby an element is transformed into another element, is an accepted fact. Satisfactory proof has been forthcoming that the vapors of the alchemists antedated scientific discoveries that would have filled them with awe. So far, it has been found impossible to control or to stimulate the change, but it has been demonstrated that uranium and thorium, for instance, may be transmuted, with lead as the final product.

It is not improbable that lead may be transmuted into gold, but experience has shown that this would involve an amount of energy out of all proportion to the value of the ultimate product.—Engineering and Mining Journal-Press.

WAS LONDON MOB RIGHT?

When Thomas Cooke Was Buried People Threw Cabbages Staks at His Coffin.

When Thomas Cooke died in London, England, a mob threw cabbages stakes at his coffin. Were they right? He left nearly $600,000 to the local almshouses. Yet he was one of the most degraded of men, according to some people. He was the son of an itinerant fiddler of Windsor, began life as a porter, obtained employment in the Excise, and came to London with eight shillings in his pocket.

Very soon he ingratiated himself into the good opinion and confidence of a rich brewer, and went into the business; and when the brewer died, Cooke persuaded the widow that the only chance she had of keeping the trade together was to marry himself. This she consented to, and Cooke became a wealthy man.

His eccentricities, which were really cloaks for his meanness and his frauds, were regarded as a freak of nature, and, as Cooke seemed worth cultivating, presents of geese, turkeys, horses, wines and other things rained upon him.

He begged his ink from offices. When he became ill he dressed himself in rags, and beseeched physicians to take pity on his poverty.

German Agriculture Is Coming Back to Normal

Washington, Oct. 25.—Reports to the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicate that Germany is rapidly coming back to normal conditions in her agricultural products. This year, Germany's grain crops will be 50 per cent larger than last year. She will produce 77,000,000 bushels of wheat as against 54,000,000 last year; 331,000,000 bushels of oats as against 217,000,000 last year, and 83,000,000 bushels of barley as against 56,000,000 last year.

RANDOM COMMENT

More than 75,000 persons in the United States were killed by accident during 1922. Automobiles were responsible for more than 14,000 of them.

Maybe we're wasting time trying to find out what is the matter with Europe, when we ought to be making an effort to diagnose America's ailments.

DEGREES OF TORTURE

Sometimes when a toothache agonizes us we wonder what it must be to get a real hurt. But of all ailments, the three which cause most pain are toothache, earache and neuralgia of the fifth nerve. The latter has been known to drive the sufferer quite mad for the time being. While a deep and dangerous wound often causes nothing but a dull ache, a slight surface injury is often intensely painful. A splinter driven into the quick of the nail causes the most exquisite agony. The tips of the fingers and the tip of the tongue are the most sensitive portions of the human frame. The cornea of the eye is also extremely sensitive, and the hand is a mass of nerves.

Longest Paved Highway in West

Los Angeles is now connected with Vancouver, a distance of 1476 miles.

Northern California has a few breaks and detours, but the road is now practically open. This highway is built on either solid cement concrete or with cement of an asphaltic waterproof wearing surface, or entirely of asphaltic concrete. About two thirds of the entire highway is of asphaltic construction of various types. This is said to be the longest continuous hard surface highway in the world.

KEATS AS A POET

Keats is not a poet easily appreciated; he does not appeal to the young. This is because of the extraordinary finish and fullness of his lines, which demand constant effort of imagination and fancy to read correctly. There is, moreover, scarcely any story in the larger part of his works. He did not give us anything new in the way of form. The secret of his power lies in his quality—sonorosity of phrase, splendor of color, and a sort of divine intuition in choice of words.

He did this by studying and absorbing the best work of his contemporaries and fusing them together in a new form of expression. He summarized and utilized all the forces of the moment, and so taught the generations after him how to do the same thing. He was especially the eclectic poet of his time; he had the Greek gift of lucidity.—LaFolie Hearn.

VOGUE OF SHERATON

Thomas Sheraton, considered the Cinderella of cabinet-making, popularized furniture that depended for its beauty upon delicate form and inlaid enrichment. Much of his early furniture was made of satin wood finished in a rich, golden shade. Painted panels for decoration were employed and often carried out by famous artists of his day. Angelica Kauffman, the first lady member of the Royal academy, did many panels for Sheraton. The genius of Sheraton is being recognized more and more, although it was never popularly appreciated during his lifetime. His work was done amid poverty. A genuine Sheraton is a treasure.

CHIEFS PLAN A NEW ENFORCEMENT WAR

CONSIDER PLACING AGENTS IN EVERY BREWERY

A COAST GUARD FUND TO CATCH "RUNNERS"

$6,000,000 Considered As Necessary to Make Effective War on Those Bringing Liquors into U. S.—Beer "Leakage" Is Charged.

Washington.—The administration is quietly inaugurating a campaign in a determined effort to make a showing before the drys break into open revolt.

President Coolidge and all his advisors realize that unless they bring a speedy end to the situation, which President Harding just before he died described as a national scandal, the dry forces will cast about for another hand wagon to climb on.

Secretary Mellon has announced that he has under consideration the following as a part of a general plan to curb illicit traffic:

1.—Placing a prohibition agent in every brewery in the country to stop the leakage of "high-powered" beer from establishments which now operate under license to produce cereal beverages of less than one-half of 1 per cent of alcoholic contents.

2.—Asking congress for $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 to enlarge the coast guard so that rum-runners bringing in hard liquor can be caught.

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes has already announced a drive on makers of home brew ingredients to reach the third major source of intoxicating liquors.

Drys have begun to use names in their fight to clean up the enforcement service. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair were definitely accused of blocking Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, in a statement issued by the board of temperance of the Methodist Episcopal church.

This brings into the open a fight which has been carried on heretofore without mentioning names. Governor Pinchot declared the prohibition commissioner should be taken out of the treasury department and placed directly under the president. It was understood he was hitting at Mellon and Blair.

MOUNT LASSEN IN SECOND ERUPTION OF THE YEAR

Redding.—Mt. Lassen, in Lassen Volcanic National Park, became active again Sunday and broke into eruption, emitting large clouds of black smoke that rolled out of the crater for half an hour. Storm clouds from the southeast, together with the volcanic smoke later hid the volcano from view. Mt. Lassen's last eruption was August 22 of this year, when for several hours great volumes of smoke, issuing from the crater, were clearly visible several miles distant.

One hundred and fifty eruptions by the volcano have been recorded by the government.

"Spirit Writing" Substitution

New York.—Mrs. Josie K. Stewart, spiritualist of Cleveland, lost her bid for the $2,500 offered by the Scientific American to the spiritualists who could convince that publication of the authenticity of any instance of psychic phenomena. Under the searching and skeptical scrutiny of science, ghostland has failed once more to produce "spirit writing" or other signs of bona fide astral dealings with human beings.

Re-Examination at Red Bluff

Washington.—The civil service commission has ordered another examination to be held Nov. 15, at Red Bluff, Cal., to secure eligibles for the postmasterhip vacancy at that place. The decision is said to be based upon application made by Senators Johnson and Shortridge, to give opportunity to ex-service men who were unable to take the examination held recently. The post pays $3,500 yearly.

Wrecked Warships Disappear

Santa Barbara.—The Delphy, flagship of the destroyer squadron which went on the rocks at Hondua, has disappeared, as has the Fuller. The Nicholas is broken in two, the Woodbury and the S. P. Lee are ready to fall to pieces, and the Young has nearly disappeared. The Chauncey is doomed.

JOHN R. QUINN, DELANO NATIONAL COMMANDER

Choice Comes After Balloting Has Consumed Greater Part of Day—Leaders Pledge Service to Body's Policies.

San Francisco.—John R. Quinn, a stockman of Delano, was elected national commander of the American Legion on the eleventh ballot, polling a total of 502 votes. His nearest competitor was James A. Drain of Washington, D. C., who received 242 votes on the last ballot.

The choice of Quinn came after the delegates had been deadlocked during the morning session and the greater part of the afternoon in the balloting. His election resulted when Pennsylvania, with 54, and Indiana, with 26, votes, switched their votes to the eleventh ballot.

Announcement of Quinn's election was received with wild ovation on the part of the delegates, who paraded the auditorium and carried the new commander to the platform. His election was made unanimous on the motion of James Drain, and which was seconded by Gen. Clarence Edward of Massachusetts, also a candidate.

The new national commander is a native of Delano, Kern county. He is a graduate of the University of California and is 34 years of age. At the opening of the war he matriculated from the second officers' training camp at the Presidio with a commission of captain of field artillery. He assumed command of Battery F of the 348th Field Artillery, Ninety-first (Wild West) Division, and served ten months overseas in France and Germany. Quinn is a past department commander of the California department of the legion.

Other national officers elected were: National vice commanders, Lester Albert, Idaho; C. M. Stoddard, Arizona; William L. Healy, Pennsylvania; Thurman Mann, North Carolina; Ryan Duffy, Wisconsin.

Ernest Clemonns, Minnesota, was unanimously elected national chaplain.

At the meeting of the national executive committee all appointive national officers were continued in their positions.

Levi Bolles continues as national adjutant with Russell G. Creighton as assistant adjutant; Robert H. Tyndall of Indiana remains as national treasurer; Eben Putnam of Massachusetts, national historian; and Robert A. Adams of Indiana, national judge advocate general.

The executive committee cast a unanimous ballot in support of the motion by the new national commander retaining these men.

Legion policies, as reiterated by the convention, were approved by the committee and entrusted to the particular care of Commander Quinn and his subordinates.

Father O'Connor pronounced the invocation at the opening of the concluding sessions and asked blessing for the legion, members and officers ad vocato.

Cripplingly crisp, its age-yellowed parchment untouched by the ravages of time, a document from the dim recesses of the past figured in a real-estate deal in Detroit a short time ago. More than a century ago, in 1811, President James Madison signed a grant from the government confirming the claim of Mrs. Alice Kirby to the Kirby estate in Gross Pointe Park. The document also bears the signature of James Monroe, who was then secretary of state.

Recently part of the Kirby estate was sold and for the first time in more than 100 years the original document basked in the reflection of a transaction.

This is one of the relatively few instances where the estate has remained in one family for more than a century. The original tract, according to the ancient grant, was 162 acres.

NEED A SELF-STARTER

"Waddson refused to contribute a cent. I thought you told me he was a man of charitable impulse."

"Well, he is. His impulses are charitable enough; the trouble is they lack momentum." —Editor Transcript.

AN OVERSIGHT

"My doctor put me on a rigid diet, but he said I could eat all the spinach I wanted."

"Well?"

"The darned fool evidently didn't know that I like spinach." —Way-side Tales.

Getting America In

There is a lot of loose sentimental talk about America taking a hand in Europe. Get down to brass tacks and what is involved? Just this: Higher taxes in America for the benefit of Europe. That is all.

European nations have no difficulty in borrowing where they can show proper security. They want to borrow without security. That is the sole purpose of all the talk about "getting America in."

Are we ready to pay higher taxes in order to make Europe a present? If we are, all right. Let us go in. But if not, let us cut out all this beautiful and meaningless talk about Europe and do something at home. —Kansas City Star.

Changed Their Minds

Russia's greatest need is capital, says the head of the Russian delegation in London. It's only a matter of a few years since they believed capital was their greatest handicap. —Tacoma Ledger.

It is estimated that $5,000,000 was brought to California on account of the Yosemite National Park and that one-half of that amount was spent within the park.

Hard work, common sense, good character, and good will find their rewards today not less but more readily than in the nation's earlier years. Destructive radicals who declare the constitution outwards only prove their ignorance.

There is every prospect that wages will continue high. There is food and shelter for everyone. The people are taking more recreation than has ever been taken by any nation. It means money accumulated.

NOW DID HE?

"The most humorous story I have ever heard," said Eddie Cantor, actor, "is the one about the inebriate chap who walked into the Palais Royal one night last year and asked the head waiter, 'Did you see me come in?' Head waiter, 'Yes.' The nut-selling guy said: 'Did you ever see me before?' Head waiter said, 'No.' Then how did you know it was me?'

AN EXTREMIST

Jud Tunkin says he knows a man who is so orderly that he never does anything much except straightening things around.

DOES FEAR MAKE MEN MORAL?

Would World's Progress Be Further Advanced If Based on Power of Love?

Does fear make men moral? Would the world be further advanced today if our religious institutions had placed as much emphasis on the power of love to reform and regenerate as they have on the power of fear? Are we yet wholly cured of the strange idea that fear aids morality?

Fear, in its heyday, used torture, imprisonment and murder to cure criminality. Fear beat children and burned heretics. Like water thrown on burning gasoline, fear only spreads the evil it aimed to suppress.

Fear, as a deterrent, is passing. But we are not yet out of the woods. War itself is essentially an instrument of fear. Business was once based on fear, and still is as based to a certain extent. King Tut built an empire on slavery. It never occurred to him that there was any other way to get men to work except to enslave them and hold them down through fear. The capitalist and laborer still attempt the appeal of fear.

The folly of fear is apparent. Its cost in dollars and cents is appalling. Its continuance as a settled policy leads nowhere. Its crimes contribute to nine-tenths of the world's history. Its cure was suggested of old—"Perfect love casteth out fear." —Harrisburg Telegraph.

CULTURE AND ONE'S LETTERS

The More Important a Man the More Pertinent His to About His Correspondence.

Letter writing is a custom of civilized races. The more cultivated the individual, the more it is second nature with him to attend to his business and personal correspondence. With individuals as with races, it is largely a matter of custom and habit.

Some persons—you may know some such—boast they do not write letters. Some men who avoid this irksome duty merely shift the responsibility, says the New York Sun and Globe. Possibly they are so situated in business that they are not required to attend to any correspondence. Social and personal letters they leave to their wives or daughters or sisters.

It is an interesting thing that the more important a man is the more particular he is to attend to seemingly unimportant correspondence. If he does not have time to attend to it himself he employs a secretary to do it for him. The distinguished writer sees that every letter addressed to him concerning what he has written, whether it is sympathetic or hostile, receives a courteous and suitable answer. The poor or mediocre writer often throws such letters in his waste-basket.

Mark Twain's Reply.

When Mark Twain was running his country newspaper he was deluged with all sorts of contributions that would have buried anyone less than a humorist to an early grave. One day he received a poetic effusion all tied up with pink ribbon and entitled "I Wonder If He'll Miss Me." When Mark had recovered his composure sufficiently to mail back the poem, he did so, with this note attached: "If he does, he ought never to be trusted with firearms again."

The Y boat feed Tuesday night was enjoyed by a large crowd of local boys, besides 25 "recruits" from El Cerrito. The program was a "snappy" one.

Claude Norris of Holdredge, Nebraska came to the American Legion convention on the Cornhuskers' Special de Laxe. While here he looked up his old-time neighbors. With Mrs. and Miss Marjorie Prizer and other former Holdredge friends he is enjoying the many attractions staged for the world war heroes.

One evening on a crowded street car I had been lucky enough to obtain a seat. A young man was standing in the aisle directly in front of me. He was reading the daily paper and was holding it in such a way that I could not see his face. I became deeply absorbed in a rather amusing article on the back page of the paper and as I read it my countenance took on a beaming expression. Suddenly and without warning the man folded the paper, and there I sat gazing earnestly and smilingly into the surprised eyes of a perfect stranger. I don't know which of us was more embarrassed but since I do not read newspapers on street cars unless they belong to me. —Chicago Tribune.

How you Profit

HYDRO-ELECTRIC power, developed, is more abundant and cheaper in California than in any other state. That fortunate condition has been brought about chiefly by public utility companies under California's effective system of regulation. True, California has certain natural advantages, but they were developed by the initiative, foresight, and courage of California Companies.
